Can human resources for health in the context of non-communicable disease control be a lever for health system changes?

Accessible here